

Green Mountain Madrigal is for eight women's voices. It was inspired by and loosely based on a madrigal by Monteverdi, Lamento d'Ariana, using it as a source for pitch and syllables. I have always loved Monteverdi's close harmonies, the tension in them, and I wanted to extend them. Green Mountain Madrigal is Monteverdi with the sustaining pedal down. It is slow-paced, with the melody passing from voice to voice, much as in a handbell choir, the previous voice sustaining the "dissonant" interval, usually seconds. I originally wrote it to perform myself, using 8-track tape (hence, the 8 voices singing in the range of my voice, which is high)

MARY JANE LEACH is a composer/performer whose work reveals a fascination with the physicality of sound, its acoustic properties and how they interact with space. In many of her works Leach creates an other-worldly sound environment using difference, combination, and interference tones; these are tones not actually sounded by the performers, but acoustic phenomena arising from Leach's deft manipulation of intonation and timbral qualities. The result is striking music which has a powerful effect on listeners. Critics have commented on her ability to "offer a spiritual recharge without the banalities of the new mysticism" (Detroit Free Press), evoking "a visionary quest for inner peace" (Vice Versa Magazine), and "an iridescent lingering sense of suspended time." (Musicworks Magazine) Leach's music has been performed throughout the world in a variety of settings, from the concert stage to experimental music forums, and in collaboration with dance and theatre artists. Recordings of her work are on the Lovely Music, New World, XI, Wave/Eva, and Aerial compact disc labels
